Privacy Policy

Note: This is a sample document describing the privacy policy for the Dickson Builders Inc. website.

Unless a visitor to the website completes and submits a contact form, or uses information displayed on the website to contact Dickson Builders Inc, we will have no private knowledge of that visitor.

Certain logs and reports may be available to us that describe traffic visiting our website, but your name is not included. Neither is your phone number, your shoe size, or the address of your fiancée.

An IP address will be recorded for each request from your web browser to our website. The time and date will also be recorded, as well as the page or pages you visit.

No cookies or other files will be placed on your computer, other than as required for the function of the website, and any files that are saved to your computer are only cached on your computer temporarily. They will be discarded when you close your web browser.

By continuing to visit and view this website, you accept and agree with the intended purpose of this website. That purpose and the intent of all content on this website is marketing of our services and products.

Dickson Builders Inc. is not liable for any damages purported to derive from any content of this website. Any allegation of damages will be viewed as fraud and a criminal attempt to unlawfully extort the real or imagined assets of Dickson Builders Inc.

Any purchase made or otherwise contracted should always be a considered decision, and we advise that appropriate expertise be consulted before that purchase.

Content on the website of Dickson Builders Inc may change at any time, at the discretion of the management of Dickson Builders Inc.

All content of the website, unless otherwise attributed, is the copyrighted property of Dickson Builders Inc.
